1904-1947:

(Note: During this period Divisions, Districts and Brigades were transferred between Commands. For ease of access they are therefore listed separately from the Commands to which they belonged.)

In 1920 Northern and Southern Armies were renamed Commands. The geographic responsibilities of the new Northern and Southern Commands were reduced by the establishment of two new commands. In a return to the pre-war division of India swept away in 1907 as part of the Kitchener reforms Eastern and Western Commands were re-established.

Eastern Command was placed in overall command of the new United Provinces District, which replaced the Meerut Division and the 8th (Lucknow) Division, and of the new Presidency and Assam District, essentially an upgrading of the former Presidency Brigade. The United Provinces District (HQ: Meerut) was ranked as a First-Class District with, initially, six Brigades while the Presidency and Assam District was ranked as a Second-Class District with no subordinate brigades. Allahabad Brigade was independent of the Districts and was controlled directly by HQ Eastern Command until 192. Delhi Brigade was detached from the United Provinces District and became an independent brigade group in 192.

Western Command was placed in overall command of the new Baluchistan District, which replaced the former 4th (Quetta) Division and of two new Second-Class Districts: Waziristan District and Sind-Rajputana District. Sind-Rajputana District was formed through the upgrading of the former Karachi Brigade but also controlled the Nasirabad Brigade Area in Rajputana. Waziristan District, removed from Northern Command, initially controlled four infantry brigades, the same number as the First-Class Baluchistan District. The ongoing importance of Waziristan and the need to station substantial numbers of troops there led in 192 to the return of Waziristan District to Northern Command. Zhob Brigade Area was independent of Baluchistan District and was controlled directly by Western Command from 192.

Within Northern Command 1st (Peshawar) Division became Peshawar District, 2nd (Rawalpindi) Division became Rawalpindi District and the 16th Division was renamed Lahore District. A new Second-Class District was however established—Kohat District—from the upgrading of the former Kohat Brigade. This new district bordering on Waziristan, also required substantial numbers of troops to keep the peace.

Southern Command controlled the new Central Provinces District, which replaced the 5th (Mhow) Division, and the new Poona District, which replaced Poona Division. These two Districts were ranked as First-Class Districts. Bombay however was detached from Poona Division and became a new Second-Class District through the upgrading of the former Bombay Brigade. Madras District, a new Second-Class District, replaced the former 9th (Secunderabad) Division, but with control of only one brigade at Bangalore. Burma District was initially placed under Southern Command but became an Independent District in 192 under the control of Indian Army HQ.

Established in the U.K. at Colchester in June 1952 the brigade was deployed to Kenya in September 1953. Disbanded in November 1956.
50th INDEPENDENT INFANTRY BRIGADE:

Formed at Bulford as 50th Infantry Brigade in July 1952. The brigade was deployed to Egypt in 1954 as 50th Independent Infantry Brigade and transferred to Cyprus in September 1955 with HQ at Nicosia. 50th Infantry Brigade was disbanded in Cyprus in February 1960.

51st INDEPENDENT INFANTRY BRIGADE/51st GURKHA INFANTRY BRIGADE/

51st INFANTRY BRIGADE:

Formed at Barnard Castle in May 1952. In 1954 the brigade was redesignated 51st Independent Infantry Brigade and deployed to Egypt based at Tel-el-Kebir the brigade was deployed to Cyprus in September 1955 with HQ at Famagusta. The brigade was disbanded in Cyprus in 1960 but was reformed in November of the same year in the UK through the renumbering of 1st Guards Brigade. The brigade came under command of 3rd Division and formed part of the strategic reserve. In March 1962 it became 51st Gurkha Infantry Brigade through a merger with 63rd Gurkha Infantry Brigade. In February 1964 the brigade was deployed to Brunei. Having served through the confrontation with Indonesia 51st Gurkha Infantry Brigade was disbanded and its units absorbed into the Hong Kong and Kowloon Garrison in November 1966. Reformed in April 1968 it reverted to the title of 51st Infantry Brigade in January 1973. The brigade was disbanded in December 1976.

52nd INFANTRY BRIGADE:

In April 2002 the 52nd (Lowland) Brigade was retitled 52nd Infantry Brigade and took responsibility for regular army units. In April 2007 it was placed under the command of 3rd (UK) Division and was deployed to Afghanistan between October 2007 and April 2008. The brigade was disbanded in 2010.

61st LORRIED INFANTRY BRIGADE:

The original brigade with this designation was part of 6th Armoured Division which was in Austria at the end of the Second World War. The Division was renumbered in June 1946 as the 1st Armoured Division and transferred to Egypt in March 1947. 61st Infantry Brigade or Lorried Infantry Brigade was deployed to Palestine in 1947 and remained there until February 1948. It appears to have returned to Egypt and to have been disbanded there in August 1948. Re-established as part of 6th Armoured Division in the U.K. in early 1951. Moved to Germany in March 1952 (HQ Minden). Renumbered 11th Infantry Brigade in April 1956.
63rd GURKHA INFANTRY BRIGADE:

Established in Malaya in 1950, 63rd Gurkha Infantry Brigade became part of 17th Gurkha Division in September 1952. At that time it was based around Negri Sembilan. The brigade remained in Malaya until January 1962 when it moved to the U.K. and was merged in March with 51st Infantry Brigade to form 51st Gurkha Infantry Brigade.

70th (EAST AFRICAN) INFANTRY BRIGADE:

91st LORRIED INFANTRY BRIGADE:

Established in December 1950 as part of 11th Armoured Division in Germany (HQ Hildesheim). Renumbered 12th Infantry Brigade in April 1956.

99th GURKHA INFANTRY BRIGADE:

The 99th Gurkha Infantry Brigade was established in Malaya in early 1953 coming under command of the new 17th Gurkha Division. The brigade served in Malaya throughout the 1950s before moving to Singapore. The escalating disturbances in Borneo led the brigade to be deployed there in December 1962. 99th Gurkha Infantry Brigade served an extended period on active service in Borneo until it was able to return to Singapore in 1966. The brigade was disbanded in Singapore in January 1970/

OTHER COMMANDS, 1966-

Introduction:

In the Introduction to the British Armed Forces section on this website I drew attention to my concentration on what I called “the fighting arms” within each of the three services. I admitted that I had been unable to include posts and postholders in Engineering, Signalling, Logistics etc and attempted to explain why.

I have continued to be very conscious of this limitation on the value and usefulness of my lists. It is simply not possible at this stage in my life to now fully rectify the omissions.

What I have done however is to now provide lists which cover the period from 1966 to the present of posts held by senior officers of the Royal Engineers, Royal Signals, Royal Army Ordnance Corps, Royal Corps of Transport, Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers and the Royal Logistic Corps. This represents a belated recognition of the vital and essential role these Corps play within the British Army.

NB:
(1) Engineer, Signal and Logistic Brigades are included in Section (e) in the main body of the Army section.
(2) The miscellaneous appointments included on pages 476-478 are recent additions which it is planned will be incorporated in appropriate sections of the main body of these lists in due course.
