

REGIMENTS AND COMMANDING OFFICERS, 1960-

1964-70:

In September 1964, one month before the Conservative Government was replaced by a Labour Government, the Royal Anglian Regiment had been formed by the merger of the 1st East Anglian Regiment, the 2nd East Anglian Regiment, the 3rd East Anglian Regiment with the Royal Leicestershire Regiment as a three battalion regiment with 4th Battalion (Leicestershire) at company strength.

The Labour Government continued this process with the formation of the Royal Green Jackets in January 1966 at two battalion strength out of the former three battalions of Green Jackets.

Queen's Regiment was created in December 1966 with the amalgamation of the Queen's Royal Surrey Regiment, the Queen's Own Buffs (the Royal Kent Regiment), the Royal Sussex Regiment and the Middlesex Regiment.

In April 1968 the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers as a three battalion regiment was created through the amalgamation of the Royal Northumberland Fusiliers, the Royal Warwickshire Fusiliers. The Royal Fusiliers (City of London Regiment) and the Lancashire Fusiliers

In May 1968 the Cameronians (Scottish Rifles) disbanded.

In July 1968 the Royal Irish Rangers were formed as a two battalion regiment through the amalgamation of the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, the Royal Ulster Rifles and the Royal Irish Fusiliers.

In the same month the three battalion Light Infantry was created through the merger of the Somerset and Cornwall Light Infantry, the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, and the Durham Light Infantry.

In September 1968 the 2nd Battalion, 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles was disbanded.

In December 1968 the York and Lancaster Regiment was disbanded.

In March 1969 the Royal Horse Guards (The Blues) were merged with the Royal Dragoons (1st Dragoons) to form the Blues and Royals.

In June 1969 the Royal Regiment of Wales was created through the merger of the South Wales Borderers and the Welch Regiment.

Also in June 1969 the 2nd Battalion of the 6th Queen Elizabeth's Own Gurkha Rifles was disbanded.

In October 1969 the Royal Hussars (Prince of Wales's Own) were created through the merger of 10th Royal Hussars (Prince of Wales's Own) and 11th Hussars (Prince Albert's Own).

In December 1969 5th Royal Tank Regiment was disbanded.

In February 1970 the Worcestershire and Sherwood Foresters Regiment was created through the merger of the Worcestershire Regiment and the Sherwood Foresters (Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire) Regiment.

In March 1970 the Queen's Lancashire Regiment was created through the merger of the Lancashire Regiment (Prince of Wales's Volunteers) and the Loyal Regiment (North Lancashire).

1970-1972:

The Conservative Government elected in June 1970 inherited a programme of reductions in the size and composition of the British Army decided under the previous Labour Government and its Secretary of State for Defence, Denis Healey. Although these had been predicated upon the decision to withdraw British military commitments from "East of Suez" and had been also the result of the economic and financial difficulties faced during the late 1960s the reductions were a continuation of a programme begun under the Conservative Government in 1957-58.

In June 1970 4th Battalion (Duke of Cambridge's Own Middlesex), Queen's Regiment was disbanded.

In August 1970 the 2nd Battalion, 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles wa disbanded.

The new government oversaw the reduction to company strength of a number of Infantry battalions which had already been agreed:

August 1970: 1st Battalion, Royal Hampshire Regiment

October 1970: 4th Battalion, Royal Anglian Regiment

January 1971: 1st Battalion, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders

March 1971: 2nd Battalion, Scots Guards

October 1971: 3rd Battalion, Royal Green Jackets

In July 1971 the amalgamation of the Royal Scots Greys (2nd Dragoons) and the 3rd Carabiniers (Prince of Wales's Own Dragoon Guards) to create the new Royal Scots Dragoon Guards went ahead as planned.

However the escalation of "The Troubles" in Northern Ireland quickly led to the reversal of most of the reductions in the Infantry:

In January 1972 the 2nd Battalion, Scots Guards, the 1st Battalion, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, the 1st Battalion, Royal Hampshire Regiment and the 3rd Battalion, Royal Green Jackets were all restored to full strength. Only the 4th Battalion, Royal Anglian Regiment was not so restored.

The net impact therefore was the loss of one R.A.C. and one infantry battalion.
1981-1987:

The Conservative Government responded to the pressures from China on the Colony of Hong Kong to re-establish in October 1981 the 2nd Battalion, 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles.

Reduction in the perception of the threat to Hong Kong led to the disbandment again of 2nd Battalion, 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles in January 1987.

1992-1996:

The Conservative Government under the “Options for Change” programme of reconstruction resulting from the perceptions of the end of the Cold War and the reduction in the threat from the former Warsaw Pact and former Soviet Government, from the reduction in the level of violence in Northern Ireland and the end of the First Gulf War introduced the most sweeping changes to the British Army in decades.

In July 1992 the 4th/7th Royal Dragoon Guards and the 5th Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards were amalgamated as the Royal Dragoon Guards. In the same month the Royal Irish Rangers and the Ulster Defence Regiment were merged as the Royal Irish Regiment whilst, temporarily, retaining a two regular battalion structure. And 1st Battalion, Royal Green Jackets was disbanded with 2nd Battalion renamed 1st Battalion and 3rd Battalion renamed 2nd Battalion.

In August 1992 3rd Royal Tank Regiment was merged into 2nd Royal Tank Regiment. In the same month 3rd Battalion, Royal Regiment of Fusiliers was merged into 1st Battalion.

In September 1992 the Queen's Regiment (with its three regular battalions) and Royal Hampshire Regiment amalgamated as Princess of Wales's Royal Regiment: with a reduction from four battalions to two. In the same month the 2nd Battalion, 2nd King Edward's Own Gurkha Rifles was disbanded.

In October 1992 the Life Guards and the Royal Horse Guards/1st Dragoons (The Blues and Royals) formed a union to create the Household Cavalry Regiment. The Household Cavalry Mounted Regiment continued its separate existence. In the same month 3rd Battalion, Royal Anglian Regiment was merged with 1st and 2nd Battalions.

In December 1992 the Royal Hussars (Prince of Wales's Own) and 14th/20th King's Hussars amalgamated as King's Royal Hussars; and 13th/18th Royal Hussars (Queen Mary's Own) and 15/19th King's Royal Hussars amalgamated as the Light Dragoons.

The programme of reductions continued through 1993 and 1994.

In February 1993 the 1st Battalion, Light Infantry was disbanded, 2nd Battalion was renamed 1st Battalion and 3rd Battalion renamed 2nd Battalion.

In June 1993 the 16th/5th Queen's Royal Lancers and the 17th/21st Lancers amalgamated as the Queen's Royal Lancers

In July 1993 4th Royal Tank Regiment merged with 1st Royal Tank Regiment

In August 1993 the 1st Battalion, Royal Irish Regiment was disbanded and 2nd Battalion renamed 1st Battalion.

In September 1993 the Queen's Own Hussars and Queen's Royal Irish Hussars amalgamated as the Queen's Royal Hussars

In December 1993 the 2nd Battalion Coldstream Guards was placed in suspended animation and the 2nd Battalion Scots Guards merged with 1st Battalion.

In March 1994 the Gloucestershire Regiment and the Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment (Berkshire and Wiltshire) amalgamated as Royal Gloucestershire, Berkshire and Wiltshire Regiment

In July 1994 the Royal Gurkha Rifles formed by the amalgamation of the four existing Gurkha regiments: 2nd King Edward's Own Gurkha Rifles and the 6th Queen's Own Gurkha Rifles (as 1st Battalion), the 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles (as 2nd Battalion) and the 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles (as 3rd Battalion)

In August 1994 the 2nd Battalion Grenadier Guards was placed in suspended animation.

In September 1994 the Queen's Own Highlanders (Seaforths and Camerons) and the Gordon Highlanders were amalgamated as The Highlanders.

Finally, two years later in November 1996 the 3rd Battalion, Royal Gurkha Rifles was amalgamated with the 2nd Battalion. These reductions in the Royal Gurkha Rifles were determined by the return of Hong Kong to China.

In the space of two years (1992-1994) or four (if the 1996 reduction in the size of the Royal Gurkha Rifles to battalions in 1996 is taken into account):

10 R.A.C. regiments had been merged into 5, 2 more had been united into one Cavalry regiment and 2 regiments of the Royal Tank Regiment disbanded. 17 regiments had ceased to exist as independent command appointments and replaced by 7. (Future changes would reduce the cavalry to 7 independent regiments, plus the Household Cavalry Regiment, the Household Cavalry Mounted Regiment and 1st Royal Tank Regiment.)

In the Infantry 3 Guards battalions had effectively been disbanded, 6 regiments had been merged into 3 with a reduction from 9 battalions to 5, 5 existing regiments had lost one of its battalions, and the Royal Gurkha Regiment had been reduced from 5 battalions, then to 4 and finally to 2.

The net effect of these sweeping changes was to reduce the size of the British Army in dramatic fashion. In July 1992 the Regular Army had a strength of 8 Guards battalions, 42 Infantry battalions, 3 Parachute regiments and 5 Gurkha battalions.

2006-2007:

The Labour Government undertook a major restructuring of the Infantry.

In March 2006 the six Scottish infantry regiments were merged into the new Royal Regiment of Scotland. In August of the same year the Royal Scot and the King's Own Scottish Borderers were amalgamated as 1st Battalion (Royal Scottish Borderers), Royal Regiment of Scotland. The remaining four Scottish Infantry regiments preserved their titular existence as 2nd Battalion (Royal Highland Fusiliers), 3rd Battalion (Black Watch), 4th Battalion (The Highlanders) and 5th Battalion (Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders). This therefore reduced the number of regular Scottish infantry battalions from six to five.

Also in March 2006 the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and the Royal Regiment of Wales were amalgamated as the Royal Welch but a two battalion regiment as 1st and 2nd Battalions respectively.

In June 2006 the Prince of Wales's Own Regiment of Yorkshire, the Green Howards and the Duke of Wellington's Regiment were amalgamated as the Yorkshire Regiment with the existing three battalions remaining intact as 1st, 2nd and 3rd Battalions respectively.

In July 2006 the Queen's Lancashire Regiment, the King's Regiment and the King's Own Royal Border Regiment were amalgamated as the Duke of Lancaster's Regiment with the existing three battalions remaining intact as 1st, 2nd and 3rd Battalions respectively.

In February 2007 the six battalions of the Devonshire and Dorset Light Infantry (renamed as such from the former Devonshire and Dorset Regiment in July 2005), the Royal Green Jackets, the Royal Gloucestershire, Berkshire and Wiltshire Regiment and the Light Infantry were amalgamate as The Rifles but with a reduction from six to five regular battalions: 1st Battalion (formed from the Devonshire and Dorset Light Infantry and the Royal Gloucestershire, Berkshire and Wiltshire Regiment), 2nd Battalion (ex-1st Battalion, Royal Green Jackets), 3rd Battalion (ex-2nd Battalion, Light Infantry), 4th Battalion (ex-2nd Battalion, Royal Green Jackets), and 5th Battalion (ex-1st Battalion, Light Infantry).

In May 2007 3rd Battalion, Duke of Lancaster's Regiment (ex-1st Battalion, King's Own Royal Border Regiment) was disbanded.

In September 2007 the Cheshire Regiment, the Worcestershire and Sherwood Foresters Regiment, and the Staffordshire Regiment were merged as the Mercian Regiment with the existing three battalions remaining intact as 1st, 2nd and 3rd Battalions respectively.

The net impact therefore was the loss of three infantry battalions.

The Conservative/Liberal Democrat Coalition Government (2010-2015) made the most drastic set of change since "Options for Change" in the early 1990s.

In June 2013 the 5th Battalion, Royal Regiment of Scotland (Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders) was reduced to company strength.

In July 2013 the 2nd Battalion, Yorkshire Regiment was disbanded with 1st Battalion renamed 2nd Battalion and 3rd Battalion renamed 1st Battalion.

In April 2014 1st and 2nd Battalions, Royal Welsh were merged as 1st Battalion.

In July 2014 3rd Battalion, Mercian Regiment (Staffordshire) was disbanded.

In August 2014 1st and 2nd Battalions, Royal Regiment of Fusiliers were merged as 1st Battalion. In the same month 1st and 2nd Royal Tank Regiments were merged as 1st Royal Tank Regiment.

In May 2015 Queen's Royal Lancers and the 9th/12th Royal Lancers (Prince of Wales's) were amalgamated as the Royal Lancers.

The net impact was therefore the loss of 2 R.A.C. regiments and 5 infantry battalions.

The Regular Army in 2019 has a strength of 5 Guards battalions, 22 Infantry Battalions, 3 Parachute regiments and 2 Gurkha battalions (although a third Gurkha battalion is being recruited): half the size in 1992.
